FOREWORD

During a time when our country is engaged in war, we offer this book as a contribution to the morale of the students of our University, in that this is the story of one part of the American way of life.

To portray the scholastic year 1941-1942 at Loyola University of the South has been the aim of the Wolf Staff. The various phases of a school's life are intertwined as closely as day and night. To separate these phases and indicate outstanding events was our tedious task, but we have attempted to represent adequately and justly all individuals and groups.

To record all the scholastic and extra-curricular activities of the student body, to give you a well-rounded picture of our university life, to present to you a book which, in years to come as you turn these pages, will make you live again this eventful year at Loyola—

These have been the ideals ever before us in preparing this book.

M. Judson Crane, Jr.

PEACE TO ALL THE WORLD

It is a distinct honor, a very great pleasure to show our appreciation to the most eminent man in the world today; who among linguists is remarkable for his fluency in all the great modern languages; who for his diplomatic achievements ranks among the greatest Secretaries of State the Papcy has ever had in its long roster of outstanding men; who during the last ten years of Concordat-making has enhanced mightily the initial fame he gained during the stormy days of the first World War as Nuncio in Munich; who in all his delicate negotiations has manifested in a superlative degree the keeness of mind, the far-sighted vision, the firmness of soul, the polish of manners that go to make a perfect diplomat; who has traveled more widely than any other man who has sat on the Throne of Peter; who is known and loved through personal contact by the peoples of such far-separated lands as Hungary, the Argentine, the United States of America; who is admired by the great and loved by the lowly; who attracts little children by his gentleness and affection, and astounds the scholars with his wisdom and knowledge; who is recognized by even the secular press as one of the Saintliest of men; who has been given to the whole world by the Holy Ghost at a period when modern civilization seems to be rushing towards a state of chaos, that the Bark of St. Peter may be ruled by a delicate but strong and expert hand; who in his first address to the world made it clear he intends to follow his grand old predecessor and initimate friend by laboring without stint and, if need be, by dying without regret for the peace of the nations; who already has won golden opinions from the peoples of all ranks, all nationalities, all faiths.

To our Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, the 262nd, to wear the Fisherman's Ring, our admiration, our loyalty, our love.

OF THE SOUTH IS A CITY UNIVERSITY FOUNDED UPON "A DIME AND A CAR RIDE"

Out New Orleans' historic St. Charles Avenue, an Azalea trail flanked with consular headquarters of many a foreign nation and mansion homes of the city's prominent personages, is Loyola University of the South—a tower of higher learning thriving in the heart of one of America's most interesting cities.

A guiding light amid a darkened world, stricken by war and subversive philosophies which are today threatening the very foundation of higher learning and Christian education, Loyola University shares in a noble heritage of four eventful centuries in that it is an establishment of the Jesuit Order which was founded by Ignatius of Loyola—a soldier who was born about the time that Columbus discovered America.

Since the Jesuits came into the territory, now the United States, shortly after the middle of the Sixteenth Century, the work they have accomplished in colleges and universities constitutes an extremely important chapter in American history of education. Fact and not fiction has labeled them the world's greatest teachers.

Jesuit ideals and teachings profoundly influenced the Founding Fathers of our Great Republic and their first student to come into prominence in this country was the colorful Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the wealthiest man among those who financed the American Revolution, outstanding for the bold manner in which he signed the Declaration of Independence and the last survivor of the great colonial patriots.

Inseparable are the early history of the United States and the chronicles of the Jesuit Order. It was the Jesuit Father Marquette who first sailed down the Mississippi river; the Jesuit Father Pedro Martinez who first carried civilization and Christianity to the Indians in Florida in the 1560's; the Jesuit Fathers Isaac Jogues and John Brébeuf and their companions who preached to the Iroquois in New York in the 1640's; the Jesuit Father Rene Menard who planted the Cross in the midst of the Sioux Indians in Michigan in the 1660's.

The Jesuits were in Virginia in the 1670's, and the Jesuit Pierre Aulneau braved the Indians in Minnesota in 1763. The first Jesuit to establish himself in the Louisiana territory was Father Paul Du Ru who founded a mission in 1700, and in 1723 the Jesuits were established in New Orleans with Father François de Kereben as first superior.

Jesuit theologians were prominent in the Council of Trent. Jesuit philosophers have led the world in their study of the ultimate causes of things under the light of human reason. In the arts and sciences, in human relations and understanding Jesuits have been a vivifying influence, and the roster of Jesuit saints—from Ignatius of Loyola, Francis Xavier, Aloysius Gonzaga, John Berchmans, Francis Regis to the more recently canonized North American martyrs, has gained for them the name: "Militia of Heaven."

Is it any wonder, then, that when Pope Paul III confirmed the Order in 1540, he exclaimed: "The finger of God is here!"

From its earliest beginnings in February, 1849, as the College of the Immaculate Conception at Baronne and Common streets, Loyola has been a center of culture and educational activity. It has occupied its present site, opposite Audubon Park, since 1904 when the Reverend William Power, S. J., then superior of the Southern Province, according to tradition, summoned the Reverend Albert Biever, S. J., Loyola's first president, gave him a dime for carfare and told him to "go uptown and found a university."

Today, the miracle of Father Biever's dime is Loyola University of the South which ranks among the prominent universities of the Americas and the leading educational establishments in the Southern part of the United States. It is one of the two hundred Jesuit colleges and universities in the world, twenty-four of which are in this country.

Loyola consists of three colleges and two schools, all conducted under the famous Jesuit principles and practices—formulated over decades of experience—the "Ratio Studiorum." Here is inculcated a philosophy of life and an intellectual Catholicism, founded on reason and confirmed in revelation. Here is taught the fundamentals of American Democracy and the responsibilities and privileges of American citizenship. Western Hemisphere solidarity is stressed and the vital importance of closer relations with the republics to the South of the United States has long been one of the university's major topics.

Though they come from many states and several foreign countries, Loyola students do not live in dormitories. They are the neighbors of the university, living in private homes and fraternity houses. Formerly, Loyola's athletes lived in several residence halls on the campus known as ranch houses. Today, only two ranch houses remain, the others having been converted into classrooms and for other purposes needed because of the university's continual expansion.

Campus life at the university is not dormant. Sixty-six campus organizations, twenty of which are fraternities and societies, are ample channels for extra-curricular activities, and social and intellectual entertainments are copious.

Tradition at Loyola flows through the life of the university as the blood through human veins, but the spirit that permeates its atmosphere is the same spirit that four hundred years ago moved the heart of a wounded soldier who arose from his bed of pain to proclaim to the world the teachings which he later embodied in the Society of Jesus, or the Jesuit Order.

Standing today in the horseshoe that fronts the campus of Loyola University, which faces St. Charles Avenue, is a symbol of this spirit. There in the solidity of stone and the warmth of love is a statue of Christ the Redeemer. With outstretched arms, the Teacher of Teachers bids the student enter and to "learn of Me for I am meek and humble of heart." This is Catholic education: That in all things God may be known, loved, adored, and glorified. In this lies the sanctification of one's soul and eternal redemption.

Looking from the avenue, on the left of the horseshoe, stands in Teutor Gothic majesty the McDermott Memorial or the Church of the Most Holy Name of Jesus. Here are conducted the spiritual exercises of the university. Here the school year opens and closes with invocations and blessings amid scenes of baccalaureate splendor and academic processions with faculty and upperclassmen in caps and gowns.

Here doctors and masters and bachelors in the arts and sciences match the shades of their hoods with colors of the rainbow and kneel in the soft rays of sunlight creeping piously through stained-glass windows. Here professor and student daily visit the Great Councilor and levites and prelates ascend the steps to the altar to offer the Clean Oblation of nearly two thousand years as voices from the choir loft chant the ancient liturgy of the Church.

CHURCH OF THE MOST HOLY NAME OF JESUS

From the Memorial's tower each Sunday and other holy days of obligation chimes flood the campus with sacred airs and the mighty organ peals out the hymns of the feast, the joys or the sorrows of the season. Thrice daily the Angelus calls all those within reach of its sound to lay aside the cares of the day and reflect for a moment on the angel's message to the Blessed Virgin Mary of the coming of the Redeemer.

At various intervals comes another sound from the tower: the solemn tolling of the years of a departing soul—and the requiem chills the heart as the student reflects on his own last end and resolves to make the next university's annual retreat even better than his last one. Such retreats are usually held during Lent, the forty days of penance before Easter Sunday. Customarily, the retreat master is a Jesuit from some other part of the Southern Province.

At the left of the horseshoe stands Louise C. Thomas Hall, the faculty building, atop which waves the flag of our country—a constant reminder of the principles for which Loyola stands, the glorious pride of Loyolans who, through their Very Reverend President, were among the first to offer the entire facilities of an American university to the President of the United States to be used as he sees fit during the national emergency.

In Marquette Hall, at the horseshoe's curve, are the administrative offices, Marquette Auditorium, the campus cafeteria and classrooms. Connecting the hitherto named buildings is an arched cloister which extends completely around the horseshoe, adding a touch of medieval beauty to the university's front view and symbolizing the inseparableness of religion from the secular branches of learning. History cannot deny it. Reason affirms it. The Catholic Church has been and still is the Mother of Education and the protectress of science and true progress. Such is the exemplification at Loyola University.

Six bachelors' degrees are offered Loyola students in the College of Arts and Sciences—of Arts, of Philosophy, of Science, Science in Economics, Science in Education and Science in Physical Education. Departments are conducted in Chemistry, Biology, Medical Technology, Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Philosophy, History, Classical and Modern Foreign Languages, Education, English and Journalism, Physics and Mathematics, Physical Education, Speech, Religion, Dramatics and Radio Production.

Loyola's zeal for higher education and service resulted during the first World War in the founding of a radio school for the purpose of training men in wireless telegraphy. This course was the outgrowth of earlier endeavors by the Rev. Anthony Kunkel, S. J., who this year observed his golden jubilee in the Jesuit Order, when in 1907 he erected an immense receiving aerial on the campus for wireless messages.

In March, 1922, Loyola established W W L, the pioneer broadcasting station of the Gulf coast. Today, W W L, moved from the campus to the Roosevelt, operates on 50,000 watts as a clear channel station. Thus radio courses at the university have a practical means of application and students have excelled in radio script writing and actual broadcasting.

Directly behind Marquette Hall is Bobet Hall which houses the College of Pharmacy, incorporated May 14, 1900; the School of Dentistry, established in 1914, and the departments of Chemistry, Biology and Medical Technology. Students in Pharmacy receive a four-year course for a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy degree. The college is a member of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy and is accredited by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education.

Students in dentistry, who, after four years are awarded a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree, receive practical experience along with their expert instruction from books and lectures. The school is a member of the American Association of Dental Schools.

Having the finest and best equipped laboratories in the South, the department of Biology is believed to have established the initial first aid station in any university or college in the nation. It was enlarged this year to fill the needs of the national emergency and is under the able direction of Dr. John G. Arnold, Jr., who also directs the department of Medical Technology, accredited by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association and the board of registry of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

First established as an evening division of the university in October, 1914, by the Honorable John St. Paul, A.M., LL.B., Judge of the Court of Appeals of Louisiana and later Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana, the School of Law was extended into a day division in September, 1925. It is now located at the right of Thomas Hall, facing St. Charles Avenue. It holds membership in the Association of American Law Schools, is on the approved list of the Council on Legal Education of the American Bar Association and the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York. Bachelor of Law degrees are offered.

Founded in 1919 by the present dean, Dr. Ernest E. Schuyten, the College of Music became affiliated with Loyola in 1932 and offers a four-year course leading to a Bachelor of Music or a Bachelor of Music in Education. Voice is taught as well as instrumental music and composition. Classes are held in MacDonald Hall which also faces the avenue at the corner of Calhoun Street. The Loyola Band as well as the Glee Club are affiliates of the college which conducts musical cultural activities during the year.

Classes are also conducted at Loyola University, accredited to the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, a member of the Association of American Colleges, the National Catholic Educational Association and the Jesuit Educational Association, for teachers and others in evening courses, Saturday morning courses and summer courses.

Without lowering its standards, the university is now operating on an accelerated wartime program for the duration. Long and formal commencements will end temporarily with the graduation of the Class of 1942. A trimester schedule, operating throughout the year —Fall Term, Spring Term and Summer Term—has been inaugurated. Henceforth, students will receive their diplomas as soon as the necessary credits have been attained.

Thus Loyola University of the South, under the Banner of Christ and the vivifying principles of American Democracy, marches onward to an Allied Victory and greater progress—holding ever heavenward the flaming Torch of Education with its rays of Liberty and Justice and the Dignity of Man!

YOU students of the university, on your own initiative, have resumed the publication of "The Wolf." I heartily congratulate you on your splendid spirit. When the world is preoccupied in works of hate and slaughterings, it is grand to find those who wish to devote much of their energy and spare time to producing a work which will foster friendships and perpetuate good will.

The present world disaster is the outgrowth of the counterfeit culture developed in so many educational institutions throughout the world. Your Catholic education is fitting you for that Christian leadership which will inspire the spiritual forces of all nations to blast away the pagan principles of living that have plunged the world into moral and civic chaos. Be proud of your Christian philosophy of life; be faithful to your traditions of morality; be courageously active in the service of Him to whom you owe supreme allegiance—for who is like to God?

THE VERY REVEREND P. A. ROY, S. J., PRESIDENT

DEDICATION

In any large organization, there are to be found those individuals conspicuous for their outstanding service over an ever widening circle of years. To attempt to single out any one individual from such a group, is indeed a difficult task. Yet, it has been considerably lightened by the fact that we are blessed in having with us one who has given so tremendously of himself for the maintenance of Loyola's high standards; and who is, above all, an ideal priest. It is therefore to our beloved President, the Very Reverend P. A. Roy, S. J., that "The Wolf," welcoming the opportunity, affectionately dedicates to him, this our 1942 edition.

THE DEAN OF FACULTIES

University life, although irksome and difficult at times, can be made interesting if the faculty cooperates. Such is truly the case at Loyola where members of the faculty are every student's friend. Difficulties of the students become the difficulties of the faculty. Whatever the latter can do to help the former is done wholeheartedly and in a paternal spirit.

This spirit is typical at Loyola and new students are at once impressed and encouraged. It is an incentive to the student for he promptly notices that his success will mean success also for the faculty and Loyola.

JOHN VINCENT DOLAN

John Vincent Dolan is the winner of the "Wolf Leadership Award" this year, chosen from twenty-four candidates from all the colleges on the campus. These candidates were nominated by the presidents of the senior class of the different schools with the approval of the respective deans.

Dolan, a senior in the economics department, has an imposing record of activities for his four years in Loyola. Following are some of the twenty-one activities in which he participated while maintaining an excellent scholastic average: Sodality, intramural sports, university band, president of Pi Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Lambda Epsilon, Student Council Representative, '39-'40, '40-'41, '41-'42, Delta Epsilon Sigma, assistant chief of police of Marquette Hall-Civilian Defense Program, and "Who's Who."

Among those receiving honorable mention were Herbert Mang, senior pharmacy student, vice-president of the Student Council; Clayton Charbonnet, B.S. in Ec. senior, president of Blue Key; William Guste, Jr., law freshman, president of the Edward Douglass White Debating Society; and J. Benjamin Henderson, law senior, editor of the "Law Review."

WOLF AWARD

In the past leadership at Loyola University has been taken too much for granted. Through the portals of Marquette Hall have passed many outstanding leaders. With them went the gratitude of the university and of the few students who realized the fine work done by these men.

The "Wolf," realizing the need of recognition for these men is proud to inaugurate the "WOLF LEADERSHIP AWARD." This award will be given annually to the graduating senior who has distinguished himself by his service, loyalty and leadership.

The prime purpose of the award is to stimulate interest in the type of extra-curricular activity that will promote leadership later in the business world. Service and loyalty to one's university are the first signs of such development.

The award this year was donated to the "Wolf" by Mr. Louis H. Pilié, a member of the firm of Barton, Pilié, Seré & Wermuth, certified public accountants.

Father Roy, president of the university, commented as follows on the award: "The Wolf Leadership Award will be a grand stimulus to individuals among our students from the time they enter the university. Those who gradually become prominent in leadership will be in keen competition with each other for the high distinction of being declared the outstanding leader on the campus in his senior year. The student who merits the award will win a signal honor of which he always will be justly proud."

The committee, who decided the winner of the award, was composed of members of the faculty. Presentation of the award will take place at the annual university trophy night.

By presenting opportunities to participate in democratic procedures, the administrators of Loyola University not only inculcate in the student democratic ideals but also train him to become a better citizen. Student government is one of these opportunities; class officers are elected by student ballot.

These officers have important and varied duties. They must try as much as possible to encourage an increase of class spirit which will redound to the credit of the entire university. In this they cooperate with the Student Council by arranging intra-class games in the various sports, sponsoring class dances, which are usually the top social events of the year, and handling the arrangements for benefit shows.

The students under such a system get a better conception of what it means to live in a democratic country, and are brought to a realization of the importance of the vote. In short they learn the true meaning of the word "democracy."

. . . . The

The Student Council is a powerful and respected democratic organization, which elects representatives each year according to the enrollment in the various schools. The regular weekly meetings follow Roberts' "Rules of Order." The legislative, executive, and judicial powers, which the council possesses, effect and enforce regulations governing student customs, elections, and other activities. Student organizations not under the control of the Athletic Council receive its supervision. All decisions, of course, must be approved by the university's administrative officers.

Under the guidance of the council, activities for this year have been highly successful. The Community Chest drives and popularity contests always arouse much interest among the student body.

In keeping with its purpose to foster student activities, each year the Student Council awards keys to outstanding members of campus organizations.

Graduation no longer means the termination of relations between departing students and the university. Through the founding of the "Alumni and Alumnae Association" in 1938, graduates may return to the university and find a warm reception awaiting them. A reception is conducted annually for the graduates, their parents and friends by the association on the afternoon of Baccalaureate Sunday.

In conducting the various social functions of the school year, the "Dance Committee" has labored earnestly to make the university dances a success. Composed of fifteen members representing the various schools and colleges on the campus, this group has complete charge of all student dances. The profits made by these dances are donated to such organizations as the Community Chest and United Service Organization.

1933—The last issue of "The Wolf" had been distributed when orders to stop publishing the book arrived from Rome. The editor watched the equipment being removed, and for the last time closed the office door. So died the old "Wolf." But the idea of reviving the "Wolf" lingered in the minds and hearts of the students. Suddenly, in 1941, after many requests, permission was granted, but, just as suddenly, it was recalled.

1942—Some students believed that if the student body as a whole would show its desire for the book, the officials might again ratify it. A poll was taken of a representative cross-section of the university, and the results were overwhelmingly in favor of returning the publication to the campus.

Another meeting of the board of directors was held. Students representing all the various schools were permitted to attend. They stated their views, and the board of directors finally voted in favor of the annual.

There was barely sufficient time remaining to publish an issue. In rapid succession the contracts were signed, an office was procured, pictures were taken, copy checked, sent off, returned. And here it is—"the New Wolf," . . . yours . . . ours . . . Loyola's. Hope you like it.

THE MAROON 1942

This year the "Maroon" celebrates its twentieth anniversary on Loyola's campus. From 1922 to the present the primary aim of the "Maroon" has been to organize, present, and interpret all campus news as fairly as possible. This has been done by presenting that news which is of the greatest interest to the university. A spirit of equality is therefore the constant ideal of each member of the staff. This spirit is shown by the proper recognition which each and every organization receives.

The excellence of our school paper has not gone unrecognized, for twice has "The Loyola Maroon" received All-American recognition from the National Associated Collegiate Press.

The Business Staff of the "Maroon" does much work which goes unnoticed by many of the Loyola students. Each of its many activities is of vital importance in the machinery which turns out our weekly All-American paper. The business staff works "behind the scenes." In its hands are the financial, circulation, and advertising work of the paper.

It is the duty of the financial department to handle money which comes in from the advertising department and balance the "Maroon's" books.

All students and faculty members get their paper promptly each Friday morning because of the efficiency of the circulation department. This department also handles the exchange of publications with other universities and thus allows the "Maroon" staff members to compare their work with that of other college journalists.

BENJAMIN HENDERSON
Student Editor

Directed by Acting Dean Vernon X. Miller as editor-in-chief, the "Loyola Law Review" is published annually by the students of the School of Law. All upperclassmen of the day division are members of the editorial staff. Members of the student editorial board prepare discussions of recent cases and editorial comment. These articles are published in the "Review" upon faculty approval as to style, scholarship and research. The "Review" is sent to all members of the American Law Schools Association, to law libraries, to alumni of the School of Law and to many attorneys in Louisiana.

The alumni of a university are always remembered and respected, and the school at all times strives to keep in contact with them and make their progress known to the students. This is one of the functions of "The Pharmacy Journal." Also important discoveries in the scientific world are recorded in the "Journal" for the benefit of both students and alumni.

"The Pharmacy Journal" deserves praise for the work it has accomplished. The purposes stated in the constitution have been faithfully adhered to and every issue has been enjoyable and helpful to all its readers.

Editor-in-Chief, Mike Bozeman, draws plans for the Pharmacy Journal with business manager, Joseph Hecker.

THE STUDENT DIRECTORY

Julian Baudier, editor, gives the first copy to James Dillon.

The long felt need for a student directory has been met by the Sodality Cooperative Union which took upon itself several years ago the responsibility of editing such a book. This little book is a much appreciated item, proving its worth many times over when one wishes to make up invitation lists, check an initial, or find a telephone number. The directory is distributed each year without cost, to everyone on the campus.

THE STUDENT HANDBOOK

One of the first guides a freshman receives at Loyola is the handbook or the "L" book, as it is probably better known. Edited by the student council, this small red book contains information about all campus organizations, their presidents and purpose, fraternities and publications. Many students carry their "L" book with them to be able to answer questions at a moment's notice.

CAMPUS VISITORS

ALWAYS WELCOME

The faculty and students of Loyola look forward to the visits of the many prominent people whom they have the pleasure of entertaining each year.

Among the visitors welcomed to the campus this year, have been outstanding people from our neighboring American Republics, representatives of the army and navy, and popular stage and screen stars.

We eagerly anticipate continued visits from all our friends and future acquaintances.

THE PLAY'S THE THING

The dramatic ability and talent of the Thespians and Dramanians is displayed in the stage productions given periodically by the members. Their plays have been a source of enjoyment to the Loyola student body. These organizations give individuals, talented in dramatics, an opportunity to exercise their ability and thereby make themselves better known to their fellow students. C. P. T.

Months before the United States entered World War II, Loyola was cooperating in an activity which today is proving a very important military help to our country. The Civilian Pilot Training was introduced at this university in order to instruct students in the science of aeronautics and the knowledge of flying. Every student who is able to meet the requirements established by the Civil Aeronautics Association is eligible for this course. After approximately 30 hours of flying, these students are issued private pilots' licenses whereupon they are prepared to take the advanced course which trains them for a commercial license.

Today, the armed forces of our country are calling for thousands of pilots for service in the Army, Navy and Marine Air Corps. Superiority in the air is vital for the defense of the United States and the democratic principles for which Americans are fighting. Loyola's Civilian Pilot Training is doing its share in rendering our country less vulnerable to attack.

ATHLETICS

THE COACH

Mr. John C. Orsley, basketball mentor and director of Intramural Athletics at Loyola, is a former basketball, football, and track coach at Jesuit and Newman High Schools. His teams were of the highest calibre winning many state and prep titles. Under his able tutelage many former high school stars became college greats.

Mr. Orsley ushered in a new era of basketball, the brand of ball that Loyola had not seen in many a year. Last year he developed a group of green boys into a smooth-functioning outfit that went on to win fifteen games, dropping five in the regular season. In his first try for a Dixie Conference Championship, his team was successful in reaching the finals only to lose to the powerful Millsaps Majors, 60-41. This year in his second attempt at a Dixie Conference Crown, the Wolves decisioned Springhill College, 51-45.

THE WOLF PACK IN ACTION

Loyola vs. Howard College. Local fans were treated to one of the finest exhibitions of basketball ever seen in these parts when the Loyola Wolfpack eked out a 58-52 win over Howard College of Birmingham, Ala. With only seconds left to play, Howard came within one point of deadlocking the score, but two foul shots and a field goal by Steve Marcev clinched the game. Starring for Loyola were Trombatore, Marcev, and Segura. Playing well for the losers were Epsman and Peterson.

THE "LONG AND SHORT" OF THE WOLF PACK

"Big Jim" McCafferty, captain, led the Wolfpack in scoring last year and was a demon under the basket. His excellent team play won him the title of Loyola's best athlete for two consecutive years. Jim stands 6 ft., 8 in. in his stocking feet, and is playing his last season with the Wolves. He was named on the first Dixie Conference team in '41-'42.

Johnnie Sparkey Altobello, former Warren Easton football, basketball, and baseball stalwart, is another player making his last appearance with the Wolfpack this year. His excellent passing and defensive work have stamped him a "Team Man." He seldom shoots, but when he does, the scorer can mark two points up on the scoreboard. Loyola will sorely miss his services.

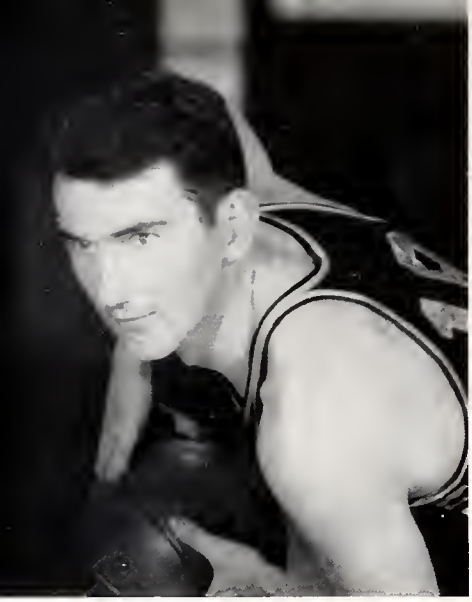
FOLLOW THE TEAM

Milton "Whitey" Jackson, Loyola forward, is a former St. Aloysius star making his initial appearance with the Wolfoack.

Sammy Trombatore, a teammate of Jackson's at St. Aloysius, is one of the most promising basketballers to enter Loyola since the heyday of "Pel" Hughs and "Danny" Lyons. He was chosen on the second Dixie Conference team this year.

Score—Loyola 49, Southeastern 43. In a nip and tuck battle at the Southeastern Gymnasium in Hammond, the Wolves gained a hard-fought 49-43 victory over the Lions. The Wolfpack was slow in getting started, but when Marcev, McCafferty, and Trombatore got the range on the basket, the Pack forged to the front. Playing well for the losers were Falcon, Williams and Franklin.



DAN DOLAN, Guard

ALTERNATE CAPTAIN JOHNNY ALTOBELLO, Guard

Millsaps vs. Loyola. Bob Segura, No. 10, Loyola, guard, under basket; Steve Marcev, Loyola, forward, No. 12, under basket, in air.

Steve Marcev, another Aloysian, is high point scorer of the Pack, having broken Danny Lyons' all-time record of 264 points with a total of 327 points. "Steve" was chosen on the first Dixie Conference team this year.

Dick McCloskey, Pack forward, is a transfer student. Last year at Junior College Dick scored some 300 points to lead his team in this department. He is a deadly shot with either hand, and is an excellent floor man.

Ed Fagot, stellar forward, saw little action this year. Ed lacked experience, but what he lacked in this department of the game he made up in fight.

Steve Medo, lanky center, seems to improve from year to year. Next season should see him on the starting five.

Dan Dolan, a native of Wisconsin, is an excellent floor man and defensive player. Although not numbered among the starting quintet, Dan did yeoman's service as a member of the second team.

Billy Hrapmann, flashy guard, though small in stature is mighty on the hardwood. Billy is playing his first season with the Wolves. He is an excellent defensive player, and in dribbling ability is second to no one.

Bob Segura, dependable Loyola guard, is a member of the Catholic All-America Track Squad, and is holder of numerous prep and college track records. Bob is a long shot artist, and a handy man to have around under the basket when the going gets tough.

WINNING THE CROWN

After drawing a bye in the first day's competition of the Dixie Conference Basketball Tournament at Jackson, Miss., the Wolves met and defeated Howard College to the tune of 60-48, earning the right to meet Springhill in the finals for the crown.

The Wolves piled up a big first half lead, but saw it dwindle as Denham and Jones of the opposition hit the basket from long range. In the closing minutes of the third quarter, Howard pulled up to within two points of Loyola, but lost ground as McCafferty and Marcev found the range on the basket.

Marcev, Trombatore, and McCafferty starred for the Wolves, while Denham and Jones played well for the losers.

Pack triumphs over Springhill to annex first Dixie Conference Crown. With a do or die effort the Wolves came from behind in the last three minutes of play in the Dixie Conference Championship game with Springhill to triumph 51 to 45. Loyola jumped off to an early lead, but fell behind at the half as Moylan rang the basket with several shots to put Springhill ahead with only three minutes left to play. It was at this moment that "Big Jim" McCafferty got started. He found the basket with several shots to put the Wolves ahead as the final gun sounded. Playing well for Loyola were McCafferty, Marcev, and Altobello. Moylan stood out for Springhill.

THE TEAM IN ACTION

Loyola fans were treated to a somewhat listless first half as the Wolves rang shots in from all angles to lead Millsaps 25-8 at the half. Millsaps came within striking distance of the Wolves in the third quarter, but tired and went down to defeat. Playing well for Loyola were Marcev, Trombatore, McCloskey and Altobello. "Lightning" Lowther was outstanding for the Majors.

Frosh vs. Soph in Hausmann Trophy tug-o'-war.

With many a grunt heard on both sides, the sophomores bested the lowly freshmen last December in the annual tug-o'-war. This was the first in a series of athletic and scholastic events between the freshmen and sophomores for the Hausmann trophy. This rivalry began with the founding of the university and is just as keen today as it was in the beginning. Since the abolition of frosh rules the spirit is more friendly, but, as is seen above, they still try just as hard to defeat each other. As yet neither class has been able to obtain complete supremacy. The record for the last twelve years is seven wins for the sophs and five for the frosh.

LOYOLA INTRAMURALS

Action shot, Dentist I vs. Pharmacy I, Intramural Championship.

In a bitterly contested battle climaxing a most successful intramural football season, a flashy Pharmacy eleven led by Herb Mang and Ben Martinez nosed out the Dental I team.

The game wore on with neither team able to push over a marker until finally in the fourth quarter the Dental team scored first on a safety. Mang intercepted a Dental pass in his own end zone and was tagged while he was attempting to run it out. The final score was 6-2.

ORGANIZATIONS

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ORGANIZATIONS

Naturally, the main purpose of attendance at college is education. Within the scope of a well-rounded education, however, there should be a place for extra-curricular organizations. It is by participating in extra-curricular activities that the individual student finds ample opportunity to develop a sense of social responsibility. Besides recreation, he gains practical knowledge in some cultural, scientific or social field.

Often charges are made that extra-curricular activities are over-emphasized. To such an assertion, a negative refutation is of no value. A positive answer which points out the definite benefits to the student, the faculty and the university as a whole, is more effective. Each organization has a definite purpose which justifies its existence. As long as it fulfills its purpose it has a place on the campus. When it fails to do this, it should be disbanded.

Organizations at Loyola fall under four general classifications: 1) Academic, which includes science, commerce, speech, dramatic and language clubs; 2) Spiritual, which consists of the sodalities and the Sodality Co-operative; 3) Musical, which embraces the band, symphony orchestra and glee club; and 4) Social, having in its scope the dance committee.

Each student at Loyola has the opportunity to join any of these organizations—according to his own tastes. As varied as these may be, one has only to inquire to find the activity to his liking. It is through the participation in organizations such as these that the student lays aside his own individual interests and develops a social university spirit.

ACTIVITY HEADS COMMITTEE

Every large corporation or business is directed and guided by a board of directors or advisors. Such is the case at Loyola where more than fifty organizations make up the roster of extra curricular activities.

The Activity Heads Committee is an advisory board whose members are the presidents of the various organizations in the school.

The Committee functions mainly through its "power of suggestion." Any organization which feels that it is not receiving proper recognition or cooperation may present its case to this group which then recommends the proper action to the authorities. This committee has done much to better the organizations on our campus, and today stands as one of the most promising groups at Loyola.

Drama, to the Thespians, is a fascinating study and thrilling experience. By experience is meant the actual presentation of dramatic works by the members of the society.

To foster in the student a desire to act and to appreciate dramatic works are the purposes of Loyola's Thespians. This year their presentation of "Nothing But the Truth," a dramatic comedy, met with the success accorded the standard set by the Thespians in previous years.

Under the capable direction of Dr. Alfred J. Bonomo and the cooperation of the members, the Thespians have and will continue to maintain the splendid standard of the organization.

At one time a branch of The Thespians, the Dramanians in 1938 became an individual organization. These night school students, with little time to spare, have done a great deal to develop dramatic talent and interest on Loyola's campus. During the four years of their existence the Dramanians have presented a number of outstanding plays. This year's, "The Masterful Monk," met with well-earned praise.

The "Night School Thespians," as they were once known, have earned their place among Loyola activities and will continue in their efforts to provide interesting dramatic fare for Loyolans.

Forum meetings are held to discuss problems which students may not have fully understood. Professional accountants are invited to address the members on various occasions. The practical experience of these men enables students to obtain a better grasp of the subject.

This organization was founded in 1925, and is cultivating "a high esteem for, and an accurate knowledge of the truth, together with the power of eloquence with which the truth might be defended." Members develop the faculty of discussing with fluency and ease problems of paramount importance to the religious, ethical, political, and social lives of the members, together with any other problem in keeping with the same profound purpose. Through an inter-collegiate and intra-organization schedule of debating, panel discussion, and extemporaneous speaking, our students have an opportunity to learn the views of their fellowmen here and in other parts of the country.

SODALITIES AT LOYOLA

In every Jesuit institution the student organization that holds the place of honor is the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin. Founded in 1563 by Father John Leunis, S. J., Professor at the Roman College, it has flourished in every land and among all races and classes of men, producing scholars and saints, soldiers and diplomats, crowned heads and scientists. Highly enriched by numerous indulgences from many popes and with a record of accomplishments any spiritual organization might justly be proud of, the Sodality of Our Lady has as its purpose the promotion of love and devotion to the Mother of God. Mary's role in the work of sanctification is no small one and hence the Sodality's motto: "Ad Jesum per Mariam," To Jesus through Mary.

The twofold objective of Personal Holiness and Active Catholicity is attained through a multiplicity of committees and projects, such as Our Lady's Committee, the Eucharistic Committee, and the Mission Committee, so that each member may participate in a number of spiritual and corporal works of mercy every month in order to increase his own spiritual perfection, through the acquisition of grace and to edify and sanctify his neighbor. The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin is truly the laboratory of the religion class. It aims to develop in energetic Catholic students deep religious convictions, a virile piety and a dynamic spirit of zeal and enterprise for the spread of God's Kingdom all under the banner and leadership of the Holy Mother of God, Mary Immaculate.

"ON MY HONOR I WILL DO MY BEST TO DO MY DUTY TO GOD AND MY COUNTRY, TO MY UNIVERSITY. . . ." This is the oath of Alpha Pi Omicron, Loyola's service organization. Established in 1938 by Frank Carriere with a handful of members, this organization has grown until now it has 35 members. If there are any difficult jobs which must be done, A. P. O. is on the alert. It has rendered the university invaluable aid such as ushering at plays and convocations, putting up scenery, making Christmas decorations and performing many other tasks that no one wants to do. This group, modeled after the Boy Scouts, does this work, not for praise, but from a desire to be of service. Nevertheless, A. P. O. has received the praise it has not sought, for everyone admires unselfish service.

The students of commerce and finance at Loyola University have an opportunity to prepare themselves for the future by taking to themselves the benefits offered by Pi Kappa Epsilon, professional commerce fraternity.

Pi Kappa Epsilon received formal recognition as one of the university's fraternities in 1940. Its purposes are to foster the study of commerce and finance, to encourage scholarship and the association of students for their mutual advancement, to promote a better affiliation between the commercial world and students of commerce, and to further a higher standard of ethics and culture in the business world.

The purpose of Le Cercle Français is to stimulate an interest in the study and use of the French language among the students of the university. This is accomplished through well-planned monthly meetings of the organization at which the members prepare and participate in question "bees," dramatic skits, and short talks in French.

The monthly socials which are held by the members were climaxed this year by the presentation of "Le Bal Masque" for members and guests.

The Germanic Society is a social club for students studying German in the university. The purpose is to create an interest in and a knowledge of Germanic history and culture. The organization sponsors German literary readings, socials, and, in general, envelops its members in the old Germanic atmosphere. Because of the international complications, the club this year sponsors only social gatherings and parties for its members.

On March 5, 1940, a group of pre-medical students, with the assistance of Mr. Edmond L. Merilh, and the advice of several prominent local physicians, organized the Agramonte Pre-Medical Society. Its purpose is to prepare members for the study of medicine by investigating the history and development of medicine, and by encouraging conduct based on correct ethics. A closer relationship between pre-medical students and the men who have already entered the medical profession is afforded its members.

Agramonte's activities include lectures given by many well-known physicians, hospital visits to observe surgical operations, demonstrations at local high schools, weekly reports concerning current medical news, and research in the history and culture of medicine.

The study of law is stimulated at Loyola by an organization known as the St. Thomas More Law Club, founded in 1936. Moot trials are presented by this organization to familiarize law students with the procedure of the courts of justice in the United States. These trials are conducted by the juniors while the seniors act as judges. Annual competition between the Law Club and Delta Theta Phi, legal fraternity, is a source of interest to all law students. In keeping with the ideals of the organization a student must maintain a C average before being admitted as a member.

Philosophy has been called the science of sciences. Metaphysical and moral truths are the main topics of this important study.

Class time is too short for some students, so the Philosophy Club was founded to give students an opportunity to discuss their difficulties in open forum, and to listen to lectures by well-known philosophers. In this way the students become even more interested in philosophy and are able to achieve the clear thinking which no other study but philosophy can develop.

Public poetry symposiums have been held where such renowned speakers as John Henry Titus, author of the famous "Face on the Bar Room Floor," Major Meigs Frost, former feature writer for the "New Orleans States," and Dr. James T. Nix, prominent surgeon and author, have addressed the gatherings. Several members of Pegasus have written and published poems.

The newest Loyola campus organization is The Micheleson Physics Society. Students interested in the science of physics sensed a need for a study group which would devote extra time to subject alone. Although it was founded this year and is still in its infancy, the society has already made noticeable progress. Weekly meetings were substituted for fortnightly assemblies to clear off surplus of discussion topics, thus clearly indicating the ambition of the members and their willingness to cooperate in advancing the society to a position of respect and prestige on Loyola's campus.

To advance organized dentistry, and to propagate professional ideals and ethics in the spirit and practice of dental students, are the purposes of this organization, composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

On May 6, 1941, the Academy of Fine Arts, through the efforts of Rev. Allain St. Paul, S. J., and a few ambitious students, had an enthusiastic beginning. In the short space of one year it has grown so that it now equals all other organizations on the campus in size and activity. Its purpose is to foster in the students of Loyola a deeper appreciation of the beautiful and the artistic, and to acquaint them with the works of the great masters of painting, sculpture, architecture, music, and literature.

In realizing this purpose, the group has sponsored many lectures on famous artists and their works. Recordings of operas, book reviews, and field trips to historic sites are prominent features on the program, which is offered through regular meetings.

Alpha Sigma Nu, national honorary Jesuit scholastic fraternity, had its inception at Loyola April 26, 1936. It answered the university's need for a society to honor undergraduates who deserved recognition for scholastic achievement.

Membership in the society is necessarily limited because of the high standards imposed. For a student to be elected to Alpha Sigma Nu, he must excel in the following field: scholarship, loyalty, and service to the university. He is selected as one who best understands and exemplifies the spirit of Jesuit education.

The Alpha Sigma Nu man displays the true results of the Jesuit system of education. He is a credit to his university scholastically and morally. He represents the typical Loyola man.

Test tubes, burettes, microscopes, solutions, normal saline, names such as paradimethylaminobenzaldehyde, along with the higher ideals of the profession of medical technology, are some of the phantasms that run through the minds of these girls. Beta Epsilon Upsilon, national honorary medical technology society, has high entrance requirements—a "B" average in medical technology and a "C" average in all other subjects, both of which must be maintained throughout the four years of college work. The scholastic year of 1923 is significant in the history of Loyola fraternalism. In that year was founded what is believed to be the first social fraternity to be recognized on a Jesuit campus: The Beggars.

Continuing its policy of service to the university, this past year The Beggars made a memorable record in shifting its schedule in order to aid Loyola's defense program. The annual spring formal was cancelled and the money invested in defense bonds, thus gaining the distinction of being the first fraternity on the campus to make such a purchase.

The Beggars was also the first campus organization to volunteer for civilian defense. Finally, the fraternity this year founded "The Beggar Key," a monthly publication to keep its members in the nation's armed forces informed of happenings at Loyola.

S. A. K. has as its standards the three elements embodied in Catholic manhood: scholarship, athletics, and society. Through the true spirit of fraternalism, a cultivation of the arts and sciences, a building of a strong and healthy body, a better social relation among its members and their companions, are its constant aims. At this date the chapter is comprised of some 34 active members in addition to a large alumni chapter.

Sigma Alpha Kappa annually donates a medal for excellency in Scholastic Philosophy in honor of St. Thomas Aquinas.

Phi Iota Alpha, international Spanish fraternity, was reorganized at Loyola in 1941. Its primary objective is the union of the 21 Ibero-American republics into a body similar to that of the United States of America. Branches of the fraternity are found throughout this country, Cuba, Mexico, Central and South America. With this wide range of contact, Phi Iota Alpha has been successful in realizing its purpose and has done much to encourage better relations between neighboring countries, particularly among students.

Colors: crimson, gold and blue; Flower: red carnation.

POST SCRIPT

The grey of evening's twilight settles over the last turbulent day of work on the new "Wolf." The once flaming coals of effort are now but dull glowing embers rapidly being oxidized into ash. The editors, worn and wearied, welcome the rest that night will bring—a night which seemed never to arrive—for they can now relax completely. . . . "The Wolf" has gone to press.

But now the editors recline at ease, and are pleased; for their work has been for them far from distasteful; they have had the company and association of the faculty and student body with their good will and voluntary assistance, for all of which they are indeed grateful. But above all they have the satisfaction which comes from the knowledge that they have accomplished something substantial for their Alma Mater, Loyola.

Just one word more—to all of those who have helped in making the book the success for which they have striven, your editors wish to publicly express deepest and most heartfelt thanks, especially: to the Very Reverend P. A. Roy, S. J., for bringing the yearbook to the attention of the faculty, and his help throughout; to the Loyola Board of Directors for their vote of permission and confidence; to the Rev. J. W. Hynes, S. J., for our "Tribute to Peace" page; to the Rev. Warren J. Barker, S. J., for his assistance in obtaining faculty photographs; to the Rev. William Crandell, S. J., for his assistance in obtaining student photographs; to the Rev. Samuel Ray, S. J., for his pictures of Grand Coteau; to Dr. Daniel Horne for his advice in arranging the script material; to Miss Laurie Ohlmeyer for her aid in obtaining the faculty and student pictures of the Dental School; to the Rev. James Carroll, S. J., and Mr. James Lang for the freedom of management allowed; to all departments and offices for their necessary information; to "The Wolf" staff as a whole for their sacrifice and wholehearted cooperation; to the organization presidents and members for their assistance in obtaining group pictures; to Miss Carmel Discon for the use of her files; to Messrs. W. A. Benson and Dan Eadie for their invaluable suggestions in making layouts; to Messrs. John J. Varenholt and Fulcran Randon, Jr., for the fine pictures appearing in this book; to the Alabama Engraving Company for their suggestions concerning cuts; to Messrs. Guy Popham and Irving Timmreck for their assistance at all times; to all advertisers and sponsors for their support; and last but not least, to the "Loyola Maroon" for the splendid publicity the yearbook has received.

LEST WE FORGET

The 1942 Wolf is now in your hands, and, no doubt, you mean to get thoroughly acquainted with it. Naturally, you are most interested in those sections where your class, your department, your frat are represented. However, do not fail to turn to other pages and tune in on the other departments. Meet by proxy, at least, the whole student body which claims you as a member. A common interest in The Wolf will make the whole school "kin."

And here let us recall some friends, not students of Loyola, who merit your attention, dear readers. We refer to those who have generously responded to our appeal for financial help in producing this book for you. The business men and firms whose announcements you see in the following pages are your loyal friends, as proved by their contributions of money to The Wolf. You will agree surely, that this calls for a little appreciation which you can show by learning their names from these pages, and, when occasion offers, giving them your trade.

A university should broaden; should develop mutual sympathy and understanding between the various spheres of human endeavor. The business world has done a good turn to our student world—and Loyola teaches, with the poet again, that gratitude is one touch of nature that makes the whole world kin.

—THE STAFF.
